months. Accordingly they collect the seeds of various grasses at the end of the growing season and store them in special underground granaries or nests. It is these reserve supplies which are the object of ant warfare. The inhabitants of one nest set out deliberately to raid the supplies of another group. ...If the attackers win, they remove the stores, grain by grain to their own nest.

Unit-IV

4. (A) Read the given passage carefully and answer the questions that follow it :

'Ours is a multi-polar world, with many visible and invisible centres of power which shift constantly and whose strengths vary from one context to another. (The two dominant centres of power still matter: through alliances and different patterns of influence they seek to maintain their position of supremacy.) In a sense they are<sup>2</sup> (the principal operators on the international chess-board; but distracting voices are beginning to interrupt their moves more and more often.) There is more disorder internationally than order. (International order is the hope and need of both developed and developing countries.)
